

An expert's view: Developments in direct lending

April 22, 2022 | Articles & Books

Davis Polk partner David Hahn recently authored “An expert's view: Developments in direct lending” in Thomson Reuters Practical Law's “What's market: 2021 year-end trends in large cap and middle market loan terms.” In the article, David discusses why direct lending has become so popular, some of the most important negotiating points in direct lending transactions, issues in direct lending that could gain increased attention in 2022, and the increase in the size of direct lending deals in the loan market.

Read the full article