

SEC Approves New FINRA Rule Requiring the Qualification and Registration of Operations Professionals

June 22, 2011 | Client Update

On June 16, 2011, the SEC approved new FINRA Rule 1230(b)(6), that will require, for the first time, that persons with supervisory, management or decision-making authority over specified "back-office" operations register with FINRA as Operations Professionals.[1] Such persons will also be required to pass a qualifying examination and be subject to continuing education requirements. An exception from the examination requirement is available to persons already registered under other FINRA registration categories.

If you have any questions regarding the matters covered in this publication, please reach out to any of the lawyers listed below or your usual Davis Polk contact.

Annette L. Nazareth

+1 202 962 7075

annette.nazareth@davispolk.com

This communication, which we believe may be of interest to our clients and friends of the firm, is for general information only. It is not a full analysis of the matters presented and should not be relied upon as legal advice. This may be considered attorney advertising in some jurisdictions. Please refer to the firm's privacy notice for further details.

Related materials

Read the full update