

Two Arbitration Centers in Shenzhen, China combined into Shenzhen Court of International Arbitration

January 4, 2018 | Client Update

On December 25, 2017, the Government of Shenzhen, China announced that the previous Shenzhen Court of International Arbitration (“SCIA”) and Shenzhen Arbitration Commission will be combined into one arbitration center named Shenzhen Court of International Arbitration. The combination indicates Shenzhen’s ambition to become a modernized hub in Southern China for domestic and international arbitration. It also comes amidst China’s effort to build itself as an international seat of arbitration on the heels of the “one belt one road” initiative.

If you have any questions regarding the matters covered in this publication, please reach out to any of the lawyers listed below or your usual Davis Polk contact.

Jonathan K. Chang

+1 650 752 2043

jonathan.chang@davispolk.com

Martin Rogers

+852 2533 3307

martin.rogers@davispolk.com

This communication, which we believe may be of interest to our clients and friends of the firm, is for general information only. It is not a full analysis of the matters presented and should not be relied upon as legal advice. This may be considered attorney advertising in some jurisdictions. Please refer to the firm's privacy notice for further details.

Related materials

2018-01-04_two_arbitration_centers_china_combined_shenzhen_court_of_international_arbitration.pdf