

Can DTSA defendants demand ‘reasonable particularity,’ too?

February 6, 2025 | Articles & Books

Davis Polk partner David Lisson and counsel James Park authored “Can DTSA defendants demand ‘reasonable particularity,’ too?” in the Daily Journal. In the article, the authors discuss the “reasonable particularity” requirement of a trade-secret claim under California law and how litigants might leverage it in their favor.

Read the article