

The role of arbitration institutions in New York

October 28, 2025 | Articles & Books

Davis Polk partner Frances Bivens and counsel Cristina Rincon co-authored “The role of arbitration institutions in New York” in the third edition of International Commercial Arbitration in New York.

The book offers a comprehensive treatment of the law and practice relating to this arbitration seat. Its chapters address the legal issues and practicalities of conducting arbitral proceedings in New York, covering topics such as the impact of U.S. litigation practices, the application of New York’s law of contracts, drafting of arbitration agreements, selection of arbitrators, jurisdiction of courts and arbitrators, taking of evidence, and principles of damages.
