

Digital assets, banking and regulation: 2026 policy outlook

January 8, 2026 | Articles & Books

Davis Polk partners David Portilla and Gabe Rosenberg authored “Digital assets, banking and regulation: 2026 policy outlook” in IFLR. In the article, the authors note that “2026 will be a busy and consequential year for financial regulatory policy,” now that the full set of financial regulatory agencies’ leadership positions has been confirmed. Topics explored in the piece include potential market structure legislation, revisions to bank regulation, bank mergers, tokenization and more.

Read the full article