

GSK: A Case Study

August 4, 2014 | Articles & Books

The Chinese government has substantially beefed up its anti-corruption enforcement in recent years, resulting in arrests and trials of high-level state officials and prominent executives of state-owned (SOEs) as well as multinational companies (MNCs).

Related materials

Read the full article