Senate Bipartisan Banking Bill to Rebalance the Financial Regulatory Landscape

March 28, 2018 | Client Update

The Senate passed the Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief and Consumer Protection Act (S.2155) on March 14 by a filibuster-proof vote of 67 – 31. The Senate bill still must pass the House, where Rep. Jeb Hensarling (R-TX) and other representatives have said they plan to propose a series of amendments to the bill. This visual memorandum summarizes the most material provisions of the Senate bill affecting the regulation of banking organizations.
